

Martley Countryside Burial Ground Memorial Tree Selection Booklet.

The only memorial trees to be planted in Martley Countryside Burial Ground are those offered by the Parish Council.

Memorial Trees are provided on a donation basis at a minimum of £55 per tree. Trees may be ordered at any time but will be reserved and then planted annually in the autumn. Relatives and friends will be invited to take part in the tree planting. Each tree will be owned and maintained by the Parish Council. Records of the selected tree, the deceased and the person making the donation will be kept so that each tree can be easily identified and memorial tree plaques are also available direct from the Parish Council's recommended stone masons, price on application.

All trees are varieties from Frank Matthews of Tenbury and are supplied in 12ltr pots with a stake, tie and rabbit guard.

Acer rub Brandywine

Maple

Probably one of the best Acer rubrum varieties for reliably intense autumn colour. The superb red and purple colours last a long time and start early.

Amelanchier x gra Robin Hill

June Berry

An upright tree with emerging pink flowers slowly turning to pure white.

Betula alb Red Panda

Birch

A superb strong growing tree with early peeling red bark exposing grey and purple shades underneath.

Betula Fascination

Birch

Deep orange, satin, peeling bark revealing layers of variable colour. The exceptionally long catkins provide much added interest.

Betula uti jacquemontii

White Birch

A spreading head, and the coppery-brown bark on young wood eventually peels to leave a distinctive white bark. The dark green serrated leaves are gold-yellow in autumn.

Crataegus lae Pauls Scarlet

May Tree

Small round-headed, with lobed, dark green foliage and densely double pinky-scarlet flowers. Small red haws in autumn.

Fagus syl Dawyck Purple

Beech

A purple leaved Beech with upright form that has rich dark purple leaves.

Malus Comtesse de Paris

Crab Apple.

The smallish, elliptic, yellow crabs of this special variety usually persist well after Christmas.

Malus x rob Red Sentinel

Crab Apple

A classic crab apple with decorative red fruit. White apple blossom scented flowers and large clusters of deep red fruits that remain on the branches well into January.

Prunus litigiosa (Tassle Cherry)

Cherry

A most unusual upright tree producing clusters of small white or pink-tinged flowers in April.

Prunus Pink Perfection

Cherry

The double rose-pink flowers are one of the most long lasting of the flowering cherries persisting for several weeks from early May. A small vase shaped tree with oval leaves, bronze when young, turning orange-red colours in autumn.

Prunus serrula

Cherry

Small vigorous and upright in its early years spreading with age. The leaves are narrow, willow-like and small dainty white flowers appear late April.

Prunus Tai-haku

cherry

very large, single white flowers with copper coloured young foliage.

Sorbus aucuparia

Rowan or Mountain Ash

Dark green leaves above, blue-green underneath, turning red in autumn. Very distinctive for its generally large bunches of bright red fruit so attractive to birds in the early autumn.

Sorbus uil Olympic Flame

Mountain Ash/ Whitebeam

A columnar tree when young, leaves green, coppery in the spring with stunning orange and red tints in autumn. The fruits are bright orange-red.
